Mindfulness Parenting

0 - 2 years olds is the transition time between the state of the womb to the state of the world. The baby is following the rhythm and natural characteristics of his mother, who is the most important person during their first two years.

The baby's character, personality and perceptiveness are developed during the first 2 years of age, therefore this is an ideal time to support their growth and create a bond of security between the maternal power and the world the baby is growing up.

As mums mindfulness allows us to be present in our parenting, choosing a skillful response, instead of our impulse reactions.

Mindfulness can help children improve their abilities to pay attention, to calm down when they are upset and to make better decisions. It helps with emotional regulation and cognitive focus.

Always establish your own technique, there is no right and wrong way. You would have trouble teaching your children ballet if you had never danced. To authentically teach mindfulness to your children, you need to practice it yourself. You can start slowly with a meditation practice of just five to 10 minutes a day.

Mindfulness is a big word for young kids to understand. Put simply, mindfulness is awareness. It is noticing our thoughts, feelings, bodily sensations, and anything that is around us and happening right now.

The purpose of teaching mindfulness to our children is to give them skills to develop their awareness of their inner and outer experiences, to recognise their thoughts as "just thoughts", to understand how emotions manifest in their bodies, to recognise when their attention has wandered, and to provide tools for impulse control.

Here are some suggestions for how you can begin to introduce mindfulness to your children at such a young age.

Listen to the noise. An easy way for children to practice mindfulness is to focus on paying attention to what they can hear. You can use a singing bowl, a bell, a set of chimes or things around the house you can make noise with. Tell your child that you will make the sound, and they should listen carefully until they can no longer hear the sound (which is usually 30 seconds to a minute).

Breathe with their favorite teddy. Choose your child's favorite teddy and then lie them down on their back with their teddy on their belly. They focus their attention on the rise and fall of the teddy as they breathe in and out.

Mindful Walks. Take daily strolls through your neighborhood and park and notice things you haven't seen before. Take one minute of the walk where you are completely silent and simply pay attention to all the sounds you can hear — frogs, birds, lawnmower. We don't even call it "mindfulness," but that's what it is.

Research demonstrates Rugby Union's effectiveness in building character in children

- Grit up 7%; self-efficacy up 9%; problem-solving up 9% -

- School children felt the programme had not only improved their character but also their performance at school, with 42% feeling significantly more focused, 46% more confident, and 47% saying it had led to better marks at school

Premiership Rugby confirms an independent evaluation by Demos, one of the UK's leading cross party Think Tanks, shows that a new, rugby-based character education programme has had 'statistically significant and positive impacts' on the character development of school children.

Created and delivered by 14 Premiership Rugby clubs, the pilot scheme, called On the Front Foot, started in April 2015 and involved more than 17,500 children at primary and secondary schools in England in a six-week long course designed to boost character, confidence and social skills. The classes were run as part of the PHSE (Personal, Social and Health Education) and PE curricula and after school.

Key findings: On the Front Foot

Secondary School Participants

- Increases in self-reported performance character and confidence: grit increased by 7% self-efficacy by 9% problem-solving by 9%, creativity by 8% and locus of control (a measure of how much one feels in control of one's life) by 5%.

- Empathy increased by 8 %, communication by 10%, co-operation by 8% and leadership by 9%.

* Participants were asked to rate themselves on a 0 to 10 scale. The baseline tended to be around 6.5 out of 10, the maximum possible change (all participants reporting 10 out of 10) would be 54 per cent.

- They felt the programme had also affected their performance at school, with 42% feeling significantly more focused, 46% more confident, and 47% saying it had led to better marks at school.

Primary School Participants:

- Increases in empathy of 5%, leadership 4%, leadership, self-regulation 3% and a 3% increase in self-efficacy.
- Participants said the programme encouraged them to expand their horizons and try new things; made them better at working with others; helped develop respect, teamwork, cooperation and resilience and determination.

Teachers

- All teachers surveyed thought the programme had a positive impact, and the vast majority also thought that the impact would last for the long-term.

- The majority of participants and teachers enjoyed it, would do it again, and recommend to another school.

- The involvement of professional coaches was important to the programme's success.

- They cited the practical, sport participation as a highlight;

they also valued the classroom aspect and one improved the other.

- Teachers were unanimous it did not demand too much of them.

- The majority of teachers thought the programme was scalable, not seeing any major barriers to delivery in other schools.

The Step by Step Guide

From Primigi experience, many useful tips for the comfort of their small feet.

Every step is a discovery, an extraordinary adventure in every season, the way how your child explores the world around him.

So, it's important to protect him and provides him comfortable, lightweight, breathable and durable shoes.

5 tips to know if the shoes size is correct

Your child's feet grow almost visibly! To be certain that the shoe fits properly, just keep a few things in mind.

1 Make sure the heel is against the back part of the shoe.

2 Keep the sole of the foot very relaxed.

3 Press down lightly at the big toe to check whether there is approximately 1 centimetre between the toes and the toe end of the shoe.

4 If your child is very young, open the shoe up as much as possible and push the foot forward as far as possible.

5 If you can insert a finger into the space that remains between the heel and the inner back part of the shoe it is the right size.

Remember to try both the right and left shoes, because often children's feet are slightly different from one another.

When to get new shoes

Children's feet are constantly changing. It is important to watch their growth, which often happens in spurts.

Generally, new shoes should be purchased:

from 1 to 3 years old – every 40 days, approximately 2 months from 3 to 6 years – approximately every 3-4 months from 6 to 10 years old – approximately every 4-5 months

BACK TO SCHOOL CRAFTS

Homework stations give kids a fun, personal space to get creative and after six weeks of holidays, getting 'back to school' ready is at the top of every parent's to-do list. Rust-Oleum has shortlisted three projects you can do in an hour that will keep kids organised throughout the year.

If, like most, homework is done at the kitchen or dining table, create a homework kit that can be easily tidied away. Bright pen pots made from old tin cans, a stationery caddy from wicker baskets or even a homework trolley made from an old bar cart make for the perfect learning space additions.

Get prepared for the year ahead with one of Rust-Oleum's easy desk tidy ideas and create a homework corner kids will love...

Drawer dividers keep things simple and are great for separating out stationery. Use Rust-Oleum Mode in a block colour like Sunflower or mask off each section one-by-one for quirky colour combinations. or get being plain and boring – drawers and box files can be the focal point in office rooms. Use bold shades and dynamic lines to create a fun workspace that kids will love and you can even match colours to different lessons.

They introduced edgy angles to desk drawers by masking off a section and painting the exposed area with Rust-Oleum Satin Finish Furniture Paint in Teal.

Make use of everyday items that might usually end up in the bin to transform a desktop space. Colour code individual jars and pots for craft supplies with Rust-Oleum Painter's Touch Craft Enamel – Tranquil Blue, Buttercup Yellow and Blossom Pink. Why not try attaching hooks to the back and suspending them from the edge of the desk or onto a notice board.

The night before a big test can be a stressful time for all but it has been known that if you place strategic top tips or facts around the home, memorising them can be a lot easier.

Try sticky notes on the bathroom mirror, math sums made out of fridge magnets and helpful hints on the bedside table. Transform almost any surface into a creative wipe board with Doodle Wall Paint (now available in B&Q stores).

My Marsden March

Anytime. Anywhere.

Dear Parents,

We are inviting all schools to organise their own 'My Marsden March' in aid of The Royal Marsden Cancer Charity. This is an easy to organise sponsored walk for your child's school that can take place anytime, anywhere. The school chooses a date, location and distance to suit themselves, and anyone from one or two classes to the whole school can take part. From short walks for younger children to longer hikes for older ones. My Marsden March is designed to be adaptable for schools.

It's also a great opportunity for pupils to have fun before and during the walk, for example by designing and making their own flags and banners, or decorating their outfits for the day.

I will help you make your school's My Marsden March a success by providing free t-shirts for teachers, pin badges for children, balloons, collection tins and posters to display around your school, like the one shown.

If you are feeling inspired and think your school might be interested in organising a My Marsden March or if you have any questions, please contact me on Janet.Tobin@rmh.nhs.uk or 020 8915 6105.

You can also find out more at www.royalmarsden.org/schools-march.

We are fast approaching the end of the summer term but it may be a fundraising event your school could organise for the autumn !

I hope to hear from you soon.

Saturday Confidence & Resilience Courses

Chelsea Academy Lots Road, London, SW10 0AB
Saturdays 17 Sep - 19 Nov 16
10am - 12pm £280 (+VAT)

Years 3-4 and 5-7

We all want children to become independent individuals who find genuine fulfilment in whatever they do in their lives. As a result, characteristics like 'confidence' and 'resilience' are desirable and they have become educational buzzwords. But how can we really develop these characteristics in young people? Role Models' courses help children to present themselves effectively and react positively to pressure. They will teach children to value collaboration and imagination, to be unafraid of complex challenges and to develop a positive and robust approach to setbacks. The courses include debating, public speaking, team building exercises and interview practice.

The Saturday morning programme is £280 (+VAT). All courses accept childcare vouchers. On the 4 & 5 day courses, there is a £50 discount for any sibling and referrals.

Young children are naturally dramatic. Their world is full of new and interesting experiences and they find excitement in the smallest of things. Come and join Lets Act today and your children will find a new world of adventure and excitement in the wonderful world of dramatic art! Children explore different poems, songs, stories and characters! We use puppets to engage the children's imaginations, which they love!

Due to the small class sizes and Intensive tuition (all junior classes are taught by two teachers, to encourage quieter children) children taking this class make excellent progress and thoroughly enjoy the sessions.

Lets Act is a family run business with family and excellent training at the heart. The children do well and advance because they care. Miss Amy is only ever a telephone call away and is always happy to meet for a coffee with parents to discuss the development of their child. They have links with a top children's agency and the children can be seen on many commercial's and TV shows.

Children who attend drama and musical theatre classes with Lets Act Drama School gain self confidence, have excellent communication skills and show developed social skills. The job is to train young performers to a professional level. Lets Act children this year alone have gained parts in- Emmerdale, Doctors, CBBC Wolf Blood, Nintendo commercial, Thompson Holidays commercial, Ella's Kitchen commercial, Ballet Lorent - Snow White and Chitty Chitty Bang Bang.

The 6 best science books for kids

Royal Society's Young People's Book Prize 2016 shortlist revealed

UK publishers submitted their best science books for under-14s to the 2016 Royal Society Young People's Book Prize and now an expert adult judging panel has narrowed them down to the 6 best books. The overall winner will be selected entirely by groups of young people across the UK. The adult judging panel hand over the reins every year to young readers to make the final decision. School and community groups will get stuck into the 6 shortlisted books and choose their winner, announced in November 2016.

The six books shortlisted by the judges are:
Lift-the-flap First Questions and Answers: How do flowers grow? by Katie Daynes, illustrated by Christine Pym ISBN: 9781409582137
 The judges said: "This book is exquisitely illustrated, a delight to look at, it's the sort of thing that really intrigues young children."

How Machines Work by David Macaulay ISBN: 9780241203385
 The judges said: "This book isn't just dry pages about what engineering is. It's a very exciting story about a sloth that has to get somewhere and in order to get to where he's going he has to build levers, he has to build bridges. Each of the pages is about how he designs a solution to a problem- just what an engineer must do."

TreeTops inFact: How to Change the World by Isabel Thomas, illustrated by Esme Lonsdale ISBN: 9780198306825
 The judges said: "We love this book because it's a book about the future and it encourages curiosity and thinking for yourself. It's about how the reader of this book can learn from what's gone before, what other scientists have achieved and asks how you might change the world to make it a better place or make it safer or to get us to the moon..."

Project Body by John Farndon ISBN: 9781782098225
 The judges said: "This book about the human body and how it functions is packed with absolutely amazing pictures, illustrations and real life pictures. It has so many facts and activities- this is a great educational book with a great balance between reading and interactive parts."

Rebel Science by Dan Green, illustrated by David Lyttleton ISBN: 9781783420445
 The judges said: "This is a brilliant book. It's about science in a really novel way. It has fantastic bits in it, like a rap battle between Sir Isaac Newton and Robert Hooke, and funny bits like the Great Atomic Bake Off. It talks about the unsung heroes of science that are not usually mentioned in text books. It's a really fun way for children to explore science and the story of science."

The Usborne Official Astronaut's Handbook by Louie Stowell, illustrated by Roger Simo ISBN: 781409590743
 The judges said: "This is a superb book all about how to become an astronaut. It's a step by step guide for would-be astronauts and space scientists- plus it has a foreword from a really inspirational astronaut, Tim Peake. There's a lot of humour in it, and it's full of those little details that just make a book special."

A sustainable weight management approach by Ursula Radloff MD – Private GP

at +richmond practice

The problems of being overweight and obesity have been increasing for the past 20 years. In the first instance it is not a "cosmetic" issue, due to the many risks associated with it. For example, heart disease, metabolic disorders/type 2 diabetes, musculoskeletal conditions, certain cancers and reduced life expectancy are typical risks.

For healthy weight loss it is important to understand metabolism. Metabolism describes the chemical reaction in all cells of your body. Metabolism is closely linked to food and the availability of nutrients.

The main elements of foods from which nutrients are derived are protein, carbohydrate and fat.

Protein: supports the muscles which in turn produce energy to burn off the fat. It is also vital for our body's fitness, growth and repair. It is found in milk and dairy products (low fat recommended), meat and fish, eggs, plant and soya.

Carbohydrates: vital for energy and can be broken into 2 types, simple and complex. Simple carbohydrates – like sugars – are easily changed into fat and they raise our insulin level. This results in an increased appetite, a longing for sweets and the disturbance of fat metabolism. They are found in processed sugar, sweets cakes, puddings, white bread. Complex carbohydrates release energy more slowly, make you feel full for longer and are found in pasta, potatoes, rice and dark bread.

Fat: is essential for our wellbeing, however too much fat is bad for us and causes weight gain. To activate fat soluble vitamins we need 30g fat daily. You will maintain your weight if you eat 60-70g daily and you will gain weight eating over 70g fat daily. The average amount eaten is 100-120g/day.

Alcohol does not contain any fat but it always gets metabolised first – so there is then no energy left to metabolise fat. Exercise helps to support the muscles and healthy weight loss but you can't just rely on exercise to lose weight, your food intake is most important. If you wanted to lose 1kg of body fat just by exercising you would need to run for 12 hours continuously.

Consult a doctor if:
 - You are unable to lose weight without support
 - You feel you may have an underlying medical condition
 - Your self-esteem is affected

Meningitis Baby Watch

Tense or bulging soft spot

High temperature. Warning - could be normal or low in babies under 3 months

Very sleepy/staring expression/too sleepy to wake up

Breathing fast/difficulty breathing

Extreme shivering

'Pin prick' rash/marks or purple bruises anywhere on the body

Sometimes diarrhoea

Is your baby getting worse fast? Babies can get ill very quickly, so check often.

Unusual grunting sounds

Vomiting/refusing to feed

Irritable when picked up, with a high-pitched, moaning or odd cry

Blotchy skin, getting paler or turning blue

A stiff body with jerky movements, or else floppy and lifeless

Pain/irritability from muscle aches or severe limb/joint pain

Cold hands and feet

Not every baby gets all these symptoms and they can appear in any order

Get your baby vaccinated to protect against meningitis. Vaccines give excellent protection but can't prevent all forms.

7 Healthy Options For Lunchbox

The maker of diabetes management systems, Dario, top healthy suggestions for fuss-free eating for little one.

1. Mouth-watering pesto chicken & veg wraps. Grilled chicken wraps with sundried tomatoes and pesto is a great low-calorie option. Try gluten-free bread.

2. Yummy double-the-fun potato salad. Chop up your potatoes once boiled and add cubes of chopped cucumber, carrots, onions and red peppers, then even smaller cubes of sweet potato for that extra bit of fibre. Mix with Greek yogurt for a super healthy option, or a light mayonnaise.

3. Knock-out Asian soba noodle salad. These Japanese noodles made from buckwheat flour are high in protein, low in fat and gluten-free. Pop in some brightly-coloured chopped veggies.

Nutritious side snacks...

4. Gluten-free fruit and nut energy bars. A high amount of fruit and nuts, is full of antioxidants and can fight allergies. 1 cup of almonds, 1 cup of dried cranberries, dates or other dried fruit, a tablespoon of unsweetened coconut flakes and as an optional treat, some dark chocolate chips. Throw into a blender until they form a ball.

Place onto wax paper and leave to chill, wrapped, for an hour minimum. Cut into rectangular bars for the lunchbox.

5. Rainbow Fruit Skewers Throw together these fun brightly-coloured kebabs using: strawberries, oranges, melons, mango, pineapple, kiwi or other favourite fruits.

6. Moreish Greek Salad Side-Pot. Low-carb Greek salad side dish, including juicy tomatoes and cucumber, feta cheese and a drizzle of balsamic dressing. This tasty vegetable side dish is a refreshing addition to your spread and is can be enjoyed by the whole family on weekends.

7. Whole-grain crackers and home-made hummus dip Grind the chickpeas and add a dash of lemon for your very own simple-to-make hummus dip, and serve with whole-grain crackers, or carrot and celery sticks.

Dario's sophisticated diabetes management system allows you to test your blood sugar via your mobile device, log your meals and keep a food database. Loved ones can also access your stats wherever, whenever, through the Dario app, to give peace of mind when faced with any unexpected changes.
