Blowing the Whistle on GDC Scam.

Orthodontists and the General Dental Council are operating an illegal scam to withhold information from the public about new methods which can avoid almost all extractions and even major jaw surgery. This is being done partly to protect traditional methods and partly to preserve the high incomes of orthodontists and surgeons. Research suggests that this British development is being ignored in the UK while spreading rapidly abroad. As a result hundreds of children and young adults have extractions and jaw surgery, unaware they may be unnecessary.

Some Orthodontists mislead patients, saying that extractions can be avoided although the traditional methods they use leave too little room, risking severe damage to the face. It is wise to explore the internet yourself, many sites make great claims and show beautiful faces but very few show good results before and after treatment. Even the media is scared of disclosing this scandal.

There is another way.

Take a second opinion now. Nine years old may be too late.

ORTHOTROPICS

Natural Growth Guidance

The alternative to orthodontics with extractions and surgery.

Orthodontics usually requires the extraction of 4 to 8 sound teeth although this is frequently denied.

Emily was treated by natural methods. No extractions. No 'Train Tracks'. No retainers.

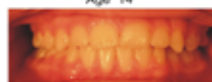

Research shows Orthotropics can get much better results than 'Train Tracks'.

The Travel Trove

If you are planning to visit Croatia any time soon, don't miss the amazing UNESCO World Heritage site, Plitvice Lakes. Located roughly half way between the city of Zagreb and the tourist resort of Zadar on the coast. You can visit as a day trip or to really get a feel for the place, why not stay a few nights at one of the hotels or lodges nearby? Set deep in woodland, populated by an array of wildlife including wolves and bears, are the 16 lakes which are interconnected by a series of spectacular waterfalls. The lakes join together over a distance of 8km so there is lots to explore and some great cycling trails too.

There are also boat trips, caves, and horse riding to keep you busy. Croatia is a great place for families who want more than just a beach, but we advise you to book early as there is a lack of family accommodation options and the best ones sell out fast.

The best camping holiday destinations in the UK for 2016

With the summer holidays being planned and upcoming bank holiday weekends, there's nothing like hitting the open road for a break in the great outdoors. Camping is a great way to spend quality time with your loved ones and can be the perfect staycation. Founder and director of award-winning campervan, caravan and motorhome insurance provider, comfort-insurance.co.uk, Peter Cue, shares the best hidden camping gems in the UK for tranquil scenery and stunning locations.

England

Little Trethvas Camping & Touring Site, Cornwall

An intimate and friendly campsite, located on the unique and unspoilt Lizard Peninsular – the perfect location to explore this wonderful corner of Cornwall. Fantastic beaches, superb walks and scenic drives through sleepy villages and wooded valleys surround this place. The area has historic importance, with Iron Age settlements, barrows and tin mines to visit. Known as 'The Menage' or 'Land of the Saints' – the vicinity of this location has a plethora of coastal walking paths dotted with Celtic crosses, where Christian pilgrims once crossed this peninsular.

There is an array of activities to keep everyone occupied. From fishing and sailing through to off-road biking and horseback riding – there is something for everyone. Trotting off on horseback across the Hoonhill Downs should not be missed, and the kids will love the nearby Flambards theme park at Helston.

Moss Side Farm Campsite, Cumbria

A hiker's dream, this campsite's location has it all. Nestled in a woodland valley, there are many footpaths leading from the farm. The main path runs along a disused railway line, going straight into Broughton, a village steeped in history and other paths lead into the valleys of Seathwaite and Ulpha – breathtaking walks will take you over streams, bridges and open fields packed with serene views.

This warm, family-friendly campsite is also a working farm, with sheep, cows, ducks, hens and dogs all residing here. The team welcome well-behaved dogs so happy campers can bring their furry friends along with them. With the farm in the Lake District a ten minute drive to the third biggest lake in this area, called Coniston Lake, active campers can have a go at the local water sports available, such as sailing, canoeing and kayaking.

Narborough Fisheries, Norfolk

One for the fishing enthusiast, this campsite located in Norfolk has its own private 26-acre site with fishing lakes flowing with chalk stream water from the River Nar. With five lakes to choose from, serious anglers can fish for the likes of Carp and Trout, amongst the 9,000 fish, making this place a fisherman's heaven. Pitch up alongside a lake and enjoy the tranquil views of nature or go wildlife spotting with a trip to Norfolk's Wildlife Trust's chalk grassland of Narborough Railway Line. It's a rare habitat-type for Norfolk and is one of the best places for butterflies, not to mention the nearby Norfolk Broads – the UK's largest protected wetland.

Scotland

Port Bàn Holiday Park

A secluded haven, situated near Kilberry on the beautiful unspoilt coastline of the Knapdale Peninsula of Scotland, where there are striking panoramic views across the sea to Islay and Jura. The sheer beauty of the landscape and the rich diversity of wildflowers and wildlife makes Port Bàn an interesting and peaceful retreat. Described as a wee taste of heaven, holidaymakers can relax in total peace.

There's plenty to see and do, such as swimming, boating, canoeing, fishing, cycling, walking or exploring the rockpools. Children can play in the open space which comes in abundance. Nearby, the Kilmartin Museum is worth a visit to discover Scotland's past, through its collection of artefacts from the Bronze Age, Neolithic Age and more.

Queensberry Bay Park

Residing on the windswept northern shores of the Solway Firth in Scotland, this family-run caravan park is the best for get-away-from-it-all breaks by the sea. The park only knows one way of life, the slow life. Maintaining the soothing atmosphere includes attention to detail and policies on pure calmness throughout the site. Visitors can go bird-watching, walking or cycling. A golf course close by and a pampering spa for activities during the day. Accommodation comprises of mixed pitches for tents, tourers and motorhomes, glamping S-pods and caravans equipped with everything needed.

Wales

Sunnysands Caravan Park

Whether it's a peaceful, laidback holiday or an action-packed fun-filled family holiday, this site offers diverse activities to suit all. Set in the scenic Snowdonia National Park and close to the seaside town of Barmouth, the park is fronted by miles of sandy beach and the calm blue sea of Cardigan Bay, backed by the panoramic mountains of Snowdon and Cadir. The place comes fully equipped with a range of facilities to enjoy, including a bar, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a restaurant and a play area.

of Goretex provides any concerned parent with the knowledge that their child will have the feeling of dry warm feet. The styling is wonderfully casual but smart, so that the blue/white/turquoise colour scheme will be complimented against blue jeans or cream trousers, but equally with summer shorts.

Velcro straps provide a hassle free means by which the child can manage on their own and feel independent. The white stitching detail against the blue outer colour illustrates the quality of the shoes construction, balanced against the white coloured deep grip sole capable of flexing and supporting the most adventurous child.

The inner linings of the shoe also excel in quality material with subtle Goretex branding printed within the patterned design. The blue leather toe provides a strong and durable solution for the foot for sports and skateboarding pursuits.

Extremely pleased with this item of footwear and as a parent, secure in the knowledge that my child's first impression was a big smile, knowing that he'll immediately show off his amazing shoes to his friends.

SCAM.BR/VIT.LAM/ARGE – 51690/77 Size 32

This shoe design has amazing detail of silver and white jewels for any girl wanting to wear dazzling footwear. The shiny silver outer makes is very durable and catches the eyes of my daughter's friends. Anti-shock inner sole enables non-stop activity with the option for quick adjustments to the fitting using Velcro straps.

These trainers sparkle all over and work well with summer shorts and equally blue jeans. Very pleased with these trainers extended further through the confidence our daughter has in wearing them, sporting a constant smile as she plays out her princess performances with eye-catching sparkle.

SCAMOS/NABUK/NAVY/A – 51291/77 Size 38

This trainer provides my son with great ankle support all round, by which small adjustments to fitting can be made by use of the two Velcro straps. The blue leather upper shoe features classic white stitching detail which compliments the solid defused white coloured sole.

The selection of blue tone colours for the outer leather really states a quality product that our Son wants to wear every day. The anti-shock heel really adds comfort and enhanced by the flexible action system sole for our Son's pursuits in cycling and climbing. Overall a very smart set of child's trainers that our son has taken to be his first selection footwear when heading out for the day with his friends.

Vegetarian Food for Healthy Kids

Quick and Easy Nutrient Packed Recipes

By Nicola Graimes
Paperback £12.99

More than 100 exciting recipes to give children all the nutrition they need. Vegetarian or not, all children can benefit from having an increased vegetable intake in their diets. Whether it's for taste preferences, moral reasons, or health, children and parents often choose to partially or fully cut out meat. However, it's not enough to just give up meat. Eating around the meat, or constantly replacing meat with carbs, leaves children with a narrow range of both nutrients and ideas about food. Children have different dietary requirements from adults, so particular attention is crucial to ensure they get sufficient amounts of the right nutrients when cutting out, or downsizing on, meat. Sourced from a wide array of foods, these are necessary for raising strong, healthy kids.

Nicola Graimes, the author of Nourish's bestseller The PartTime Vegetarian, has developed 100+ quick and inspirational recipes that kids will love and the whole family will enjoy.

A baby's second year – important developmental milestones

Dr Tobias Odenwald, MD
Consultant paediatrician

A baby's first birthday follows a year of impressive growth and development. However, this doesn't mean the second year will be any less exciting, both for the child and their parents.

With all basic body functions now well-established, your child (who by now is officially a toddler) can use those skills to explore their surroundings much better. Being able to stand with good balance, walk forward and backwards and up and down stairs widens their area of operation enormously. It is time to move glassware and medication to higher shelves, secure electricity sockets and install a stair gate.

With greater mobility and a better overview when standing, children learn about the features of objects through constant visual, oral and manual exploration. They can now use the more sophisticated and useful pinch grip with their fingers. These advanced physical skills are combined with big mental and social developments. Children learn to distinguish between themselves and others better and start to become more independent of their parents. They tolerate temporary separation from parents more easily – an important aspect of their social development and a prerequisite for longer nursery attendances.

In the second year of life children will develop their own self-determined will. Their improving language skills enable them to express this will and say what they want – 'no' becomes a very popular word! This, together with possible rivalry amongst siblings and bad dreams or nocturnal nightmares at this age can bring parents to the verge of despair. It is therefore beneficial to remind oneself that these aspects of a child's development in the second year of life are not only normal, but a very important step towards a more mature, independent and interactive toddler.

And most of these new behaviours aren't difficult to deal with at all, quite the opposite. Your child will start to:

- imitate and want to 'help' you
- drink from a cup and eat

with a spoon
•take off their clothes on their own (with a little help). Typically, children between one and two years of age can play alone for a while. Container games, where things are put from one box into another, are very popular with one-year-olds and help them to understand sizes, shapes and spatial relationships as well as the function of everyday items.

Other milestones typically seen at two years of age include:

- Ability to kick a ball and climb stairs (two feet per step)
- Build a tower with 2-4 cubes (showing hand preference)
- Speak 6-12 words
- Use a spoon;
- Displaying symbolic play e.g. "talking" on a telephone, or domestic mimicry such as "helping" in house hold chores

Later on, children start to learn in a more abstract way through observation. They realise that their actions trigger reactions, including other people's reactions to what they do or say. At this point, they will start addressing others directly and with intention. This promises a lot of fun for the next year... Consult your doctor if you have any doubts about your child's motor, social or speech development, or notice any of the following:

- A regression in development (loss of their acquired skills)
- No walking by 18 (males) to 20 (females) months
- No speech by 18 months
- Out of control tantrums

At richmond practice we have two consultant paediatricians who do health checks for children Monday to Saturday. They do the work according to the schedule provided by the German paediatric society. Please do not hesitate to contact us with a concern about your child or if you need re-assurance.

Take the Guess Work out of Giving Medicine

New research, from the makers of Dentinox, the baby medicine experts, have uncovered that there are 50 million potentially inaccurate medicine doses given to children aged 0-5 years each year. The good news is that Dentinox has produced a new Medicine Dispenser to take the guesswork out of giving medicines to our precious little ones.

The research discovered that children aged 0 to five years receive an average of 17 doses of liquid medicine per year, but 66 per cent of mums are not sure that their child always gets the right dose – that's the potential for 50 million inaccurate doses, which may not work effectively. One in five (17%) mums admits to giving their child a top-up dose if they don't think they have had the full dose.

The root of the problem is in how liquid medicine is given to little ones. Nearly half of mums (48%) give their little one's medicine on a spoon, which in itself can be difficult to accurately measure. However, in addition, one quarter of mums (24%) say they do not find it easy to give their child liquid medicine, with one third saying that their tot has refused to take a medicine (37%) and a further 73 per cent saying that their child has actually spat out their medicine.

When asked if they think there are any risks associated with giving a wrong dose, less than half of mums knew that too much could be harmful while too little might mean it doesn't work. Twenty nine per cent believe there is no risk.

Dr Catherine Hood, mum of two, notes: "Sometimes, as a mum, it's necessary to cut corners but when it comes to medicines, there are no corners to cut. It's important to make sure that your child gets the right dose. I know from my own experiences how difficult it can be trying to get a wriggly baby to take a medicine he doesn't want to take but that's where you need to get creative. If your child needs medicine, it's important to get it right."

SMART DISPENSING THINKING FROM DENTINOX

Designed by a doctor, the new Dentinox Medicine Dispenser is the simple, soothing way to give a pre-measured dose of medicine. A baby can passively suck to draw the medicine through the orthodontic silicone teat. It also has a unique plunger to ensure the accurate delivery of a pre-measured dose of medicine. It's easy-to-use, portable and can be used from three months.

Dr Catherine adds: "The Dentinox Medicine Dispenser takes the challenge out of giving medicine to babies and young children. ..."

NEW Dentinox Medicine Dispenser: £6.99

It can be used from the age of 3 months.

Dentinox Eye Wipes: £3.49
Containing a sterile saline solution, designed to gently cleanse a baby's eyelids and lashes, safely removing sticky residue and refreshing a little one's eyes. Suitable from birth and ideal for when out and about. They come in a handy box with 12 wipe sachets, each individually sealed. Dentinox Eye Wipes are not a medicine.

Dentinox Infant Colic Drops: £2.96

Containing Dill, they are suitable from birth and come with a handy syringe for easy application. The drops can also be added to your baby's bottle to help relieve their discomfort, providing effective relief for those trying, colic episodes. (Contains Activated Dimeticone). Always read the label.

Dentinox Teething Gel: £2.39

Suitable from birth, this soothing gel, which can be applied every 20 minutes if necessary, works swiftly, providing effective pain relief. It's sugar free and contains an antiseptic. (Contains Lidocaine hydrochloride and Cetylpridinium chloride). Always read the label.

We're Stuck!

One Tenth Human & China Plate Theatre
present:
Maths. Robots.

Shoreditch Town Hall
25th March to 1st April

A brand new interactive theatre show for 8-11 year olds, We're Stuck! takes children on a fun adventure with scientists and robots which could change their whole attitude to maths. Inspired by the extraordinary abilities and limitations of our brains, award-winning theatre-maker Sarah Punshon uses the latest educational neuroscience to tackle how utterly rubbish our brains can be. Ever got terribly stuck on a problem? Ever made a stupid mistake and felt like a fool? Then this show is for you.

Young adventurers will go on a special tour deep into the heart of Volcano Industries where they meet cutting edge scientists struggling with some unusual and extremely tricky problems in their top-secret research laboratory. In a promenade performance, the ridiculous heroes and the brave young audience go on a voyage of discovery, pitching themselves against ludicrously difficult tasks, getting horribly stuck, and risking total failure. It'll be fun.

WARNING: May contain robots.

The show was developed through test workshops over the last year with the help of Maths on Toast, a charity that was founded to tackle the lack of opportunities for families to have fun doing maths in their local communities. Five senior neuroscientists and psychologists from the Centre for Educational Neuroscience, University of London; the Department of Experimental Psychology, University of Oxford; and the School of Biomedical Sciences, University of Edinburgh helped in developing the show. Sarah Punshon said, "I was inspired to make the show after helping my nephew with his maths homework. It was scary to see how much he minded getting a wrong answer, how tempted he was to give up if it got hard. It reminded me of myself at that age! But talking to the scientists has been extraordinary. I've discovered how wrong we are about how we learn maths – and been astonished by the breakthroughs scientists are making in understanding exactly how our brains work. I'm excited to work with such a brilliant team. Because it's such an interactive show, I've been collaborating very closely with Sophie Sampson, our games designer, and Joanna Scotcher, our designer. We've been inventing strange brain-computer hybrid robots, and ways for kids to learn how to control them. My sister's terrified of helping her kids with maths: I'm hoping someone like her will bring their kids along, and maybe the show will help change the way she looks at maths homework in future."
